$452,966 Falls Account Released

Funds To Two Boards

By KEN RABBEIN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Bucks County Court this weekend released to Falls Township's Board of Supervisors and School Board $452,966 in escrow account funds.

The money, $402,966 belonging to the school board and $50,000 placed in the fund by the supervisors, was salted away almost a year ago when U.S. Steel's Fairless Works paid its $1,611,865 tax bill under protest.

When the bill was paid, the school board and supervisors had Fairless Works assessment appeals dating back to 1956 either before the County Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes, (County Commissioners) or Bucks County Common Pleas Court. For the first time, U.S. Steel also entered an assessment appeal.

Too High, Too Low

Steel said the assessment was too high and the municipal organizations claim the assessments weren't high enough.

The latest appeals were before the county board and municipal officials thought the law said they must put 25 per cent of the amount paid to them in an escrow account until the appeals were decided.

Investigation by Board solicitor T. Sidney Cadwallader II and Board of Supervisors attorney William F. Heffner, however, revealed that the law says escrow accounts must be established when a taxpayer appeals to the (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Trujillo Plot Leader Killed

CIUDAD TRUJILLO (UPI) — Security police shot and killed retired Gen. Juan T. Diaz, alleged mastermind of last week's assassination of Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, in the streets here last night.

An armed forces communique issued early today said Antonio de la Maza Vasquez, one of Diaz's right-hand men, was killed with him in a tommy-gun battle in downtown Ciudad Trujillo.

Cite Vienna Talks

LONDON (UPI) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said today that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's agreement at Vienna on the need for an effective cease-fire in Laos could break the deadlock in the 14-nation Geneva conference on the crisis in that tiny Southeast Asia kingdom.

In a joint communique following a morning of talks at the prime minister's office in Admir-

JFK To Make Summit Report

LONDON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger announced today that President Kennedy will make a half-hour radio-television report to the nation tomorrow night on his summit talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The report will be made from the President's office in the White House.

Salinger said the broadcast will be carried by all television networks from 7 to 7:30 p.m., EDT.

ality House, Kennedy and Macmillan also reaffirmed their determination to stand fast against any renewed Soviet pressure against the Allied position in Berlin.

The British and American leaders said "there was full agreement on the necessity of maintaining the rights and obligations of the Allied governments in Berlin."

The communique was issued after an announcement by White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger that Kennedy would report to the American people on his European trip over nationwide radio and television networks Tuesday night.

See editorial "Something Or Nothing" on Page 6, please.

Express Hope

The communique said Kennedy and Macmillan "noted with satisfaction the agreement in Vienna on the need for an effective cease-fire which in their opinion should lead to progress in Geneva towards an agreement permitting the establishment of a neutral and independent Laos."

Salinger declined to say, in response to a question, whether Macmillan and Kennedy discussed the possibility of a "Big Four" meeting on Berlin and other subjects.

One report was that they discussed whether the international climate now was favorable for a Four-Power summit meeting involving the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

Macmillan is known to be heavily in favor of the Four-Power summit approach.

Merchants, Residents Hail Steelmark Days Promotion

Merchants throughout Lower Bucks County were enthusiastic this morning in their appraisal of the three Steelmark Days that wound up Saturday in a blaze of promotion, pageantry and prizes.

Business in the nine shopping areas that participated in the three days was tremendous, they said.

In the Levittown Shop-A-Rama, the crowds were the biggest ever on the Mall, Horace G. McNab of the Levittown Businessmen's Association, said today.

Includes Christmas

"That includes Christmas crowds," McNab said. "They came early and they stayed all day, and that was despite the rain that fell Saturday."

Crawford H. F. Schafer of the Fairless Hills Shopping Center; Leon Plavin of the Mill Street Businessmen, Bristol; Bernard Glaser of the County Club Shopping Center, all agreed with McNab.

Glaser compared Saturday's Steelmark crowds with those of Easter and said that they brought more business to the merchants than the Easter shopping period had.

Special Aroma

Besides the crowds, McNab said, Saturday had a special

'Wins'-Then 'Loses' Car

For 12 hours over the weekend, a 14-year-old Morrisville High School student thought that he had won an automobile.

He went to bed Saturday night glorying in his good fortune.

Then, approximately at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, came the sad news. Although the youth's ticket was drawn first for the auto given away as the grand prize of the Steelmark Days promotion, he was ineligible for the prize. Rules plainly printed on each ticket stated that the winner had to be 16 years or older.

Another winner was drawn and the youth accepted his disappointment philosophically, with a bit more awareness now of how important it is to abide by the rules.

aroma for those on the Levittown Shop-A-Rama.

"The King of the Bar-B-Que contest gave the Mall a fragrance it never had before," he said.

The Levittown Businessmen and Courier-Times sponsored a contest, in connection with Steelmark Days, for barbecue cooking by men.

On a more serious vein, McNab, who was co-ordinating chairman for the three-day promotion, lauded its purpose.

Awareness Of Steel

"To us," he said, "it was not a merchandising event as much as a campaign in Lower Bucks to make the people aware of steel and what it does for our community. However, we did do a wonderful business."

The entire three-day promotion was to create a greater public knowledge of what steel is and of the men who make steel.

It was co-sponsored by U.S. Steel and by the merchants of the nine retail areas: the Levittown Shop-A-Rama, the Fairless Hills, Country Club and Morrisville Shopping Centers; Yardley, Newtown, the Morrisville business district, Five Points and Mill Street in Bristol.

Hundreds Of Prizes

Throughout the three days hundreds of prizes of both merchandise and cash were given away at each of the nine centers. A mammoth parade touched off the pageant Wednesday night and dozens of special events were scheduled, including such features as a parachute jump, a high diver (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Fire Damages House In Twp.

An early morning fire at 12 Green Lane, Bristol Township, caused damage to the roof of the frame dwelling and drove Mrs. Thomas Pusey and her son, Pat, 18 to the street.

Firemen from the Edgely Company received the alarm about 8:15 a.m. They broke a hole in the roof to aid them in bringing the blaze under control in about 15 minutes.

Water and smoke caused damage to the upstairs portion of the house.

Good Evening!

What is so rare as a day in June?

Don't call us, we'll call you. And tell you that simply nothing's more gorgeous, as yesterday's and today's gentle skies attest.

Well, nothing that is, except a big, juicy, sirloin steak medium done, for which right at the moment we'd exchange our right arm.

Dieting great for the body, spirit and soul. But what's going to happen when the fried chicken, blueberry-muffin, roasting-ear and home-grown tomato days arrive we contemplate with dreadful fear.

President Kennedy winds up his trip to Europe today and we think it wasn't a bad idea after all.

Nothing actually accomplished and little was expected. But France's deGaulle and the Kremlin's Khrushchev found our young but tough and knowledgeable President a gentleman of their own stature and better. This is what really counted.

And that Jacqueline!

It's been a long, long time since Uncle Sam has had such a beautiful, gracious, glamorous, youthful and intelligent first lady who could capture the love and admiration of everybody everywhere.

Now, we think is the time for Americans to turn their attention back to this outrageous "Tractors for Prisoners" deal of blackmail perpetrated by funny-man Castro and bought hook-line and sinker by some of our fuzzy-brained people such as Eleanor Roosevelt, Walter Reuther and Milton Eisenhower.

Kennedy has the ways and means to kill it NOW. He should use them.

Pint-sized Don Ferrarese shackled the Pirates and won a 5-0 shutout for the Phillies yesterday at Forbes Field. With Roberts pitching today against the Giants at San Francisco, however, we're going to be afraid to look at the final score.

If ancient Sam Snead continues his dazzling pace, he'll be the man of the year for sure. You see where he won individual honors at the International Cup Trophy at Dorado Beach with an amazing 272-8 shots ahead of the field? And with his equally ancient partner, Jim Demaret, walked away with all honors for the United States?

See why people really shouldn't get old any more?

Tavern Fire Causes $35,000 Damage

Police and firemen today were investigating a fire last night that caused an estimated $35,000 damage and injured one fireman slightly at the Morrisville Gardens 22 East Bridge St., Morrisville.

Police Chief John S. Davis said this morning that the investigation into the cause of the fire was under way. Chief Frank Cowell, Union Fire Co., joined fire underwriters today in the investigation. The fire, which started around 9:30 p.m., took firemen from three fire companies more than two hours to extinguish.

The injured fireman, John Toth of Capitol View Fire Co., who cut his hand while battling the flames, received on-the-spot first aid and returned to assist other firemen.

No One In Building

The two-and-a-half story frame building, which houses a tavern, restaurant and upstairs apartment is owned by Al Levine of Levittown. His son, Leonard, has a room in the building. Police said no one was in the building when the fire started.

Walls and Furniture Damaged

Chief Cowell said the blaze apparently started in the restaurant section. His theory was that the fire began near a ventilation shaft, which caused the fire to quickly spread. Damaged were the upper floors and the first floor, which suffered extensive fire and water damages. The walls and furniture were heavily charred in the bar.

It was the second fire at the tavern in recent months. The bar (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Quiet Reds Welcome K

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev returned home today from his summit conference in Vienna and received an unusually quiet welcome at Vnukovo Airport.

Before leaving Vienna this morning, Khrushchev expressed hope that his meeting with President Kennedy would help "solve the question of disarmament and the abolishment of the cold war."

Members of the Soviet government were among the crowd which gathered at the airport for the welcoming ceremony. Soviet citizens, mostly factory workers brought by trucks, applauded and a few cheered.

But the arrival ceremony was muted in comparison to Khrushchev's homecoming from his first trip to the United States and other journeys he had made abroad.

Khrushchev passed up his last chance for a session with foreign correspondents in Vienna and read his farewell speech carefully from a typewritten paper.

He said his two-day meeting with Kennedy "will help promote lasting peace."

"It has always been the policy of the Soviet Union to work for long and lasting peace and to solve all problems by negotiations," he said.

"However, the goal can be only achieved by solving the question of disarmament and the abolishment of the cold war."

"We would like to believe that the meetings which we had with President Kennedy will serve these purposes and will secure peace between peoples."

Free Want Ads For Kids Today

More than 400 ads appear today in the Courier-Times free of charge to area youngsters.

The free ads can be found on pages 18 and 19 in today's paper and will run again tomorrow and Wednesday.

The Courier-Times has printed these ads to show young people the value of a want ad and to show Lower Bucks Countians how ambitious and enterprising the young citizens are.

Walking Dogs

One ad placed by a sister and brother, aged 13 and 14, respectively, is headed "Walking dogs and baby sitting." Another ad under Situations

Wanted—Male, reads: "Help, need financial statice. 15 years of age. Do most any job."

The grammar of the ads and the spelling appears as it was received from the children.

To Help Youngsters

These young people are looking for jobs, trying to sell something, trade something, find something lost or return something found. The Courier-Times is trying to help them get whatever they're seeking.

Classified Advertising Manager Paul Weidemann calls the free ads "a happy solution to correlate the available supply of the young people to the demands of the adults."

Queen's Censor Orders Show Drop Song About Jackie

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth's censor today took the unusual step of ordering a new musical revue to eliminate a satirical song about Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy whom she invited to dinner tonight at Buckingham Palace.

The censorship astonished the producer of the revue, Andrew Broughton. He said he was particularly puzzled because items in a similar irreverent vein dealing with the royal family and Antony Armstrong-Jones, husband of Princess Margaret, have not been touched.

Queen Elizabeth does not personally have anything to do with stage censorship which is in the hands of one of her court officers, the Lord Chamberlain.

La. Col. Eric Penn, a friend of the royal family and aide to the Lord Chamberlain, signed the letter which said the song could not be passed for performances because it "concerns the wife of a head of state."

When the lord chamberlain, the Earl of Scarbrough, was asked about the decision he said: "I never make any comment."

The earl's family motto is: "A sound conscience is a wall of brass."

The censored song was to have been sung by stage and screen actress, Jill Ireland, wearing a white evening gown and roller skates. It goes, in part:

"Since I married Jack how dame fortune has smiled,

"For his temper is sunny, his outlook is mild,
"Though we don't discuss Cuba in front of the child...
And a chorus sings back:
"Jacqueline,
"You are truly an American queen."

was found on De La Maza's body, the communicate said.

The deaths of Diaz and De La Maza increased to 12 the number of persons known to have been arrested or killed by police searching for the assassins.

Security police announced Sunday that three suspects had been arrested and a fourth had committed suicide. Six persons had been either captured or shot while resisting arrest earlier.

According to the government, only one of the actual killers—Antonio Lambert—still is at large. Three persons suspected of complicity in the assassination plot have not yet been captured.

Although the government says the plot was motivated by "personal revenge," the fact that Diaz and a number of other army officers were involved suggested that it may have been intended as a military coup.

Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo Jr., who as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff has in effect inherited his father's power, has denied reports that at least 1,000 persons have been arrested since the killing.

Police Probing Two Burglaries

Middletown police are investigating two burglaries which occurred sometime last night. Loot taken totaled $316.40, more than half of which was in coins.

Burglaries were The Eagle Vending Company, Trenton Road, Levittown, and Cameron's Real Estate office, 2001 West Lincoln Highway, Langhorne.

Entry to Eagle Vending was made through a side window. Quarters, nickels and dimes—totaling $193.40—were removed.

Entry to Cameron's Real Estate office was made via a rear window. The office was ransacked, with $123 in cash missing.

bench appears virtually assured before Bucks starts operating as third-class county in January now that the Pennsylvania Senate Appropriations Committee has approved a bill for the creation of a separate Orphan's Court.

If Valimont wins the appointment, he will probably assume the duties of a Common Pleas Court judge along with President Judge Edward G. Biester and Judges John P. Fullam and Lawrence Monroe. Judge Edwin H.

Satterthwaite, who is familiar with Orphan's Court work, will probably take over in that capacity. The bill authorizing an additional judge at a salary of $22,500 annually, was proposed by State Sen. Marvin V. Keller, of Newtown.

Bucks now has three Republican judges and one Democrat. Valimont was one of three candidates recommended by the Bucks County Bar Association.

Laos Peace Talks Reopen

GENEVA (UPI)—The Laos peace conference reopened today with East-West praise for the Kennedy-Khrushchev summit meeting but the Russians made no move to break the deadlock over policing the cease-fire.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Pushkin, discussing the weekend conference between his premier and the President of the United States, said "the favorable influence of his event cannot be overlooked."

But then he dismissed the stalemate over the cease-fire issue as a minor matter, even though the West regards it as a critical test of this conference and Soviet intentions.

Blough spoke at the 111th commencement exercises of Bucknell University where he received an honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Laws.

Local law enforcement authorities have solved a burglary at the Bristol Kartway, Route 13, Croydon, which occurred May 25.

Two young Philadelphia men have been committed to Bucks County Prison to await a hearing for their part in the crime.

They are William John Kelly, 18, of 3508 Cottman St., and Charles Richard Havens, 21, of 2141 Revere St.

According to Bristol Township police who aided in the investigation and apprehension of the pair, the loot was stashed in a barn on a farm in Monroe Township, N.J. It included three miniature cars, two motors, six tires and several crash helmets, with a total value of more than $1,500.

The crime was solved through the combined efforts of Bristol Township detectives Edward Ellison, Ed Ward and Charles Shaw; court, and so the barristers contended in a brief they filed with the court last November to get back the escrow money.

Ordered Returned

Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite agreed with the lawyers' belief that since the appeal was before the county board when the steel company tax bill was paid, rather than before Bucks County Court, the money could be returned to the school board and board of supervisors. The judge ordered the money returned last Friday.

Lack of the escrow funds had forced the school board to borrow money two months in a row to pay its operating expenses.

Part of the school board's financial problem has arisen as a result of the construction of the $280,000 Brookview Elementary School.

Current Income

Board President Bradshaw Snipes told the Courier-Times today that the board decided to pay for the school out of current income, rather than through a school building authority bond issue. Snipes said a bond issue would have been twice as costly as the "current income" payment method.

Snipes said the board pays off about $6,200 on the school, or about one mill, each year. A deficit does show up at the end of each school year, but this is covered by borrowing at low interest rates on anticipated tax income, Snipes said.

As a result of the escrow account's release, the board will be about $130,000 in debt, which is what Snipes claims the school board expected. The school board has received a bit more than two per cent interest during the six months the money has been in escrow. This means the board will receive additionally, about $4,000 in interest payments.

When the school board tentatively passed its 1961-62 budget last month, it included as receipts the escrow account funds as well as money the board thought it would receive in the event the assessment appeal was granted in its favor.

This, however, did not agree with the thinking of board members Richard Davis and James Smith or GOP school board candidates Clifford W. Owles and Mahlon Fiscel, both of whom serve on the board's advisory committees.

Called Improper

These gentlemen claim failure to raise the tax rate more than two mills, (it went up from $2 to $4), was improper, as was the board's counting on its financial chickens before they were hatched.

Nevertheless, half of the chick's egg shell has been cracked and Snipes indicated the chick would soon emerge, sprout wings and sly to the corner of those who favor the board's actions in budget-making and appeal-filing.

Fiscel posed the question, "What happens if the board loses its appeal?" Snipes says the board may win all of the appeal and would certainly not lose all portions of the complicated legal hassle. A total of 95 assessable or non-assessable items, depending on the point of view, are being studied by Bucks County Courts.

Agree In Court

The litigants, U.S. Steel and the municipal organizations, agreed in court recently as to what items the court could specifically study. This was taken by some to be a victory for the municipal officials. The escrow account release is a second favorable indication, Snipes points out.

Even though the court could decide against the school board, appeals to higher courts could be taken, thus further tying up tax money and dragging out the proceedings.

Snipes and other board members were overjoyed at the escrow account's release.

Snipes said, "We needed the funds and we expected their release, but we didn't know whether or not they would come through now or during the next school year."

Turning to the recent budget planning, the board president explained:

"Best Judgment"

"The best judgment of the board took this sum into consideration when planning the new budget. The release of these funds completely contradicts any false ideas about the budget as stated in public news releases or letters by Richard Davis and James Smith, board members, and Clifford Owles."

"If we followed the advice of these three the only action left open to the board would be to drop the Steel case because of the funds held in escrow, or to raise taxes an additional six or seven mills. Of course, if the board would raise the millage this amount, these same three would clamor to drop the Steel case so the millage would be lower. By realistically budgeting the return of this escrow fund the board has saved the taxpayers an additional 6 or 7 mills," Snipes pointed out.

Systematically Included

"The majority of the board has been continuously in favor of pursuing the U. S. Steel assessment appeal. They believe substantial items of real estate have been systematically excluded each year. The assessor's method has been to include only those items of real estate which U. S. Steel told him were assessable," Snipes declared.

All of these matters will be discussed tonight when the board holds its monthly meeting at the Fallsington School, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The board's biggest problem right now is the realization that since the appeals are now before Bucks County Court, 25 per cent of the steel company's tax payment will have to be placed in an escrow account. This means the board will have that much less money with which to pay for the education of Falls Township children.

Prison, Fine For Goldfine

BOSTON (UPI) — Industrialist Bernard Goldfine was sentenced today to a year and a day in prison and fined $110,000 for evasion of $790,000 in personal and corporate income taxes.

His blonde secretary, Miss Mildred Papernum, who was a co-defendant with him on one indictment, was placed on three years probation.

An additional 18-month sentence against Goldfine was suspended on condition he pay the taxes due with penalties and interest and also disclose what was done with $600,000 in cash.

Federal Judge George C. Sweeney, who imposed the sentences, said the court was informed that $600,000 in cash and checks drawn to cash from Strathmore Woolen Co. and other Goldfine properties had never been accounted for.

No Arrests Made On Blue Laws

A check this morning of area police apparently reveals no arrests were made yesterday in connection with violations of the Sunday blue laws.

Since the recent Supreme Court decision which was handed down last week, the Blue Laws have been the object of much discussion in the area.

was damaged slightly once before.

An estimated 110 firemen fought the flames, coming not only from Union Fire Co., but also Capitol View Fire Co., Morrisville, and Yardley Fire Co.

As hundreds of spectators watched from the street, and fire equipment blocked passing motorists, heavy Sunday traffic was re-routed off of Bridge St. (old Route U.S. 1) on to the new U.S. Route 1, which crosses to the Morrisville-Trenton Expressway.

building, Al Levine, of Levittown, was notified last night of the fire. The fire was first discovered by Morrisville Patrolman Joseph DiGiorgio, who placed the fire call. Firemen didn't return to their headquarters until about 2 a.m. today.

Firemen sent aerial ladders to the top of the building, and stood on the roof while battling the flames. Chief Cowell said the blaze was hard to fight because the roof joists were afire.

In addition to this hazard, firemen were temporarily faced with a cut-off of their water supply. A water main break on S. Pennsylvania Ave. threatened to halt the supply, but fire officials said the water kept coming, despite a brief slack.

Firemen sprayed adjacent buildings to prevent the flames from spreading.

cautious but probably would not exclude such a meeting if he thought it had good chances of success.

The talks between Kennedy and the British leader opened this morning in Admiralty House.

Crowd Cheers Jackie

Just as the talks between the two leaders were ending, the President's wife, Jacqueline, won loud "oohs" and "ahs" of approval.

al when she stepped from the residence of her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and drove to lunch with Kennedy, Macmillan and a group of friends.

As Kennedy and Macmillan charted future cold war strategy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk was briefing NATO Allies and French President Charles de Gaulle on the Vienna summit in Paris. Assistant Secretary of State Foy D. Kohler was conferring with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on the Vienna meetings in Bonn, West Germany.

The Russians continued to put more emphasis and optimism on the Vienna summit meeting than the Americans did.

The Moscow Communist party newspaper Pravda today described the Vienna talks as "a good beginning," and added:

"The road to good deeds is open and the Soviet Union again has shown that it is going on this road with a firm step."

A photograph of Kennedy and Khrushchev bore this caption: "This is of great importance to all mankind."

Cheering British throngs greeted Kennedy this morning as he left Radziwill House, where he spent the night, drove to the U.S. Embassy and then to the Admiralty House to meet Macmillan.

His motorcade caused massive traffic jams that held up his car three times despite an escort of 14 motorcycle policemen.

At times Kennedy stood up and waved acknowledgements, smiling broadly.

He spent 10 minutes inside the embassy, talking to U.S. staff personnel, and then drove to Macmillan's office.

Kennedy and Macmillan were expected to study carefully and assess Soviet statements that Khrushchev was "very gratified" over his talk with Kennedy and that he might be looking forward to further summit talks, possibly including Britain and France.

One of Kennedy's aims was to assure Macmillan that no private concessions were made to the Russians in Vienna.
